Undertaking by the employer to MOM in respect of the Work Permit holder named below. The security bond is bought from a bank or insurer and is a binding pledge to pay the Government if the employer or the worker breaches the Work Permit or security bond conditions. The bond and the medical insurance are the employer's obligations: they may not be charged to the worker, and the pass cannot be issued unless they are in effect.

The bond must be in effect on the day the worker arrives. If it is not, the immigration officer will refuse entry and the worker must be sent home immediately. The employer checks the bond status and prints the security bond acknowledgement letter before travel, and gives a copy to the worker.

3. CONDITIONS SECURED BY THE BOND

The employer understands that the bond may be forfeited in whole or in part where, among other things:

1. the worker works for another employer or in an occupation other than the one stated in the Work Permit;
2. the worker remains in Singapore after the Work Permit is cancelled or expires without lawful authority;
3. the employer fails to pay the worker's wages, levy or upkeep, or fails to repatriate the worker when required;
4. the employer or worker breaches any Work Permit condition, including the prohibition on workers paying for their own placement, levy, bond or insurance;
5. the worker is involved in a breach of the Employment of Foreign Manpower Act or of the Immigration Act.

COVER FROM	COVER TO	PLAN (INPATIENT + DAY SURGERY)

☐ Primary Care Plan purchased (required for dormitory ≥ 7 occupants or CMP sector)

The insurer must cover inpatient care and day surgery, including conditions that are not work-related, with an annual claim limit of at least S$60,000 per worker, and any sub-limit (per disability, per condition, inpatient or day surgery) must itself meet that minimum. The employer declares the policy details on WP Online before the pass is issued and maintains cover throughout the employment, including any period of hospitalisation that starts abroad or continues after the pass is cancelled.

5. PAYMENTS THAT MAY NOT BE RECOVERED FROM THE WORKER

The employer undertakes not to deduct, withhold or recover from the worker's wages, or require the worker to repay: the security bond premium, the medical insurance premium, the Primary Care Plan, the foreign worker levy, the S$35 application fee, the air ticket, agent or placement fees, or any cost of the employment. Any such clause is void and is an offence under s. 22 EFMA. Deductions made without authority must be refunded within 7 days of discovery.

AMOUNT RECOVERED FROM WORKER (MUST BE S$0)	REFUND REFERENCE (IF ANY)

6. HOSPITALISATION, REPATRIATION AND CANCELLATION

If the worker is hospitalised, the employer meets the hospital's bill up to the policy limit and beyond it as required by the Work Permit conditions, and pays the worker's wages during certified sick leave. If the pass is cancelled, the employer cancels it within 7 days, settles all wages, arranges the worker's return within the period allowed, and may not reclaim the cost of the ticket from the worker's final salary.
